

FATHER ERIC GREEN,
Roman Catholic Chaplain,
Army Chaplain's
Department.

The first few weeks of the expedition were to most of us a delightful time of cruising from one island in the Aegean to another – varied by a short stay in the brilliant sunshine of Egypt. One of these islands was Skyros. Roughly described, the whole island is of white marble, in great blocks and piled up to two or three thousand feet, and flashed all over